Environmental Regulatory Compliance for Electrical and Electronics Products (EEE)

Enhesa's EEE Service helps producers and importers of electrical goods to stay on top of regulatory developments around the world.

Do you know?

- Some countries apply take-back obligations to products outside the scope of the WEEE-Directive?
- What is required to ensure you are in compliance in each country you operate in?
- What products the WEEE and RoHS Directives apply to and which are exempt?
- What the responsibilities are for manufacturers, importers and end-users of products?
- What exemptions are available and the process for reviewing and reauthorizing exemptions?

Our monitoring reports not only identify and summarize each initiative as it evolves, but also analyze how your business will be impacted and suggest appropriate responses to the regulatory development in question.

Enhesa gives you the tools to stay in compliance anywhere in the world.
