How are Enhesa Regulatory Registers an essential part of your global assurance program?

Enhesa Regulatory Registers are tools:

Tailored to be relevant to your operations

- Structured around carefully selected screening questions to quickly and efficiently create a unique register for individual facilities
- Specific to a country, region and state and may be further narrowed down by issues (i.e. chemicals management)
- Includes guidance to assist in determining applicability of specific regulations
- Provides a summary of compliance requirements for each relevant regulation
- Gives transparency and traceability through on-line results and final Register Report
- Contains a link to the original text of the legislation

Designed to be compatible with ISO 14001 and OHSAS 18001

- Designed to fulfill the requirements of §4.3.2 'to establish and maintain a procedure to identify and have access to the legal and other requirements applicable to the environmental aspects of facility activities, products and/or services.'

Up-to-date, Global, Multi-lingual

- Available for more than 60 countries including regions, states and provinces
- Available in English and local language
- Updated to fit the client's schedule
- Drawing upon Enhesa's extensive regulatory database of over 30,000 regulatory texts.

User-friendly

- Designed to be managed by one or more users allowing the expertise of several people to be utilized efficiently and effectively
- Accessible to users both at facility and/or corporate level
- Supplied on either a dedicated website or as a data-feed compatible with most information system platforms

Integrated and Supported

- Can be integrated with all other Enhesa compliance tools
- Supported by Enhesa regulatory consultants who can assist companies with scoping, pre-tailoring of registers, answering applicability questions, training and on-site support
